About the Enormous Wealth to be Found in the Yukon.

ONE RETURNED PROSPECTOR

SAYS THAT HE SAW MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WORTH OF THE YELLOW METAL STACKED UP AWAITING TRANSPORTATION OUT OF THE COUNTRY, AND MILLIONS YET IN SIGHT - A MINING EXPERT HAS AN ENTIRELY DIFFERENT TALE TO TELL, BUT DOES NOT BELIEVE THERE IS ANY DANGER FROM STARVATION AT DAWSON CITY.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 12. - The steamer City of Topeka arrived here last night from Juneau, Alaska. Among her passengers was John F. Maloney, of Juneau, who came out from Dawson City with the Galvin party. Maloney said:

"Hunter creek and Gold Bottom creek, it is conceded, will equal if not rival the now famous Bonanza and Eldorado creeks. More especially is this true of Hunter creek. Location No. 33 on that creek is among the richest in the Klondike district. Many of the claims on this creek will run $2,000 to the box. On No. 30 Eldorado, Alex McDonald's claim, one man in a shift and a half (which is about twelve hours), shoveled in $20,000. On Skookum gulch, which enters Bonanza No. 2, above Discovery, on locating Nos. 1 and 2, I saw $30,000 weighed out of two box lengths.

Mr. Maloney saw a sixteen-quart brass kettle filled with gold dust in the cabin of R. T. Dinmore, Harry Spence, Bill McFee and others. No. 1 Bonanza, owned by Oscar Ashley and Billy Leake, will produce $1,000,000.

Ten days after the boat left for down the river, taking the gold, the North American Trading and Transportation company had a quarter of a million in its safe at Dawson. This shows how rapidly the gold accumulates. Mr. Maloney says that over $2,000,000 will come out this fall. "There are stacks and stacks of gold," he said, "each with the owner's name on it. Alex McDonald will produce the largest amount. I hesitate to give figures, but the simple truth is that his various interests will yield from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 this winter. These figures are staggering, but true."

The statement is made that Henry Bratton, agent for the Rothschilds, who has been several days at the diggings, offered over a million for ten claims adjoining on Eldorado, but the offer was declined. Maloney offered $50,000 for a one-half interest in claims Nos. 35 and 36, on Eldorado, which offer was declined likewise. Charles Anderson, on claim No. 22 on Eldorado, panned out seven hundred dollars in three hours. This was on August 16. James Tweed, in two hours, shoveled in on No. 30 Eldorado, 252 ounces of gold.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.-Henry Bratton, the mining expert, who is known throughout the United States from his connection with the Exploration company of London, has returned from the Klondike. His mission was to ascertain if any opportunity presented itself for investment.

He said: "I found some very good placer mines, but not of as sensational richness as has been reported. In many cases the claims are comparatively poor, although almost all of them will pay wages. Because one claim is very rich is no reason why an adjoining one should be equally good. On the contrary the near neighbor of a rich claim is generally not worth much. There are few summer diggings in the Klondike, that is those that can be worked by the ordinary sluicing process. Most of the bedrock is eighteen or twenty feet below the surface, and the earth is frozen solid except the eighteen inches or two feet which thaws in the summer. On the whole, the Klondike may be classed as very good diggings, and I should say there is a good chance for other discoveries this fall.

"As to quartz mining, I consider it impossible at the present time, owing to the difficulty to be overcome. "I do not think there is much danger of starvation at Dawson."

C. W. Matthews, ex-sheriff of Ashland, Wis., has returned from a trip to the Klondike, made for the purpose of ascertaining whether sheep and cattle could be shipped to the mining districts of Alaska and the northwest territory at a profit, and he is now on his way east to perfect arrangements for sending a flock of 2,000 sheep to Dawson in the early spring.

Matthews is associated in the undertaking with John Rea, of the firm of Rea Bros., of Chicago, shippers of stock. The Jesuit fathers are preparing to build a new ship for the Yukon river to replace the one they formerly had, but which at the time of the rush six months ago was purchased by miners as a last means of reaching the gold fields.

The new vessel is to run up the Yukon between the Catholic missions. It will be 92 feet long and 22 feet beam. It will be called the St. Joseph.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 12. - Henry Roumaine, who returned from Cook's Inlet on the City of Topeka, having sold a mining claim on Hunter's creek, states that 103 head of cattle got over the Dalton trail, but that other cattle en route will be blocked out by snow.

Roumaine says that a number of men with light outfits succeeded in crossing the trail. Their supplies are limited and many will suffer before the winter ends. Constable Revat, of the provincial police, writing from Lake Bennett, says a number of Americans had threatened to resist the collection of duty, but the officers are prepared for them.

LOST HIM THE PRESIDENCY.

How Lincoln's Question Shattered Stephen A. Douglas' Hopes.

Independent: Perhaps no anecdote told of Mr. Lincoln illustrates more forcibly his "longheadedness" in laying plans than that incident when he asked the "Jedge" a question in his debate with Mr. Douglas, which may be told as follows: One afternoon during that joint debate Mr. Lincoln was sitting with his friends planning the programme, when he was observed to go off in a kind of reverie, and for a time appeared to be totally oblivious to everything around him. Then slowly bringing his right hand up, holding it a moment in the air, and then letting it fall with a quick snap upon his thigh, he said:

"There, I am going to ask the 'Jedge' the always-called him 'The Jedge' a question to-night, and I don't care the most of a continental which way he answers it. If he answers it one way he will lose the senatorship. If he answers it the other way it will lose him the presidency."

No one asked him what the question was, but that evening it was the turn of Mr. Douglas to speak first, and right in the midst of his address, all at once Mr. Lincoln rose up, as if a new thought had suddenly struck him, and said:

"Jedge, will you allow me to ask you one question?" "Certainly," said Mr. Douglas. "Suppose, Jedge, there was a new town or colony just started in some western territory; and suppose there were precisely 100 householders-voters-there; and suppose, Jedge, that 99 did not want slavery and one did. What would be done about it?"

Judge Douglas beat about the bush, but failed to give a direct answer. "No, no, Jedge, that won't do. Tell us plainly what would be done about it."

Again Douglas tried to evade, but Lincoln would not be put off, and he insisted that a direct answer should be given. At last Douglas admitted that the majority would have their way by some means or other.

Mr. Lincoln said no more. He had secured what he wanted. Douglas had answered the question as Illinois people would have answered it, and he got the senatorship. But that answer was not satisfactory to the people of the south. In 1859 the Charleston convention split into two factions, and "It lost him the presidency" and it made Abraham Lincoln President.

ORIGIN OF TABLE UTENSILS.

Even During the Middle Ages People Ate With Their Fingers.

The use of the fork dates back only to the seventeenth century. The old Greeks, although their civilization was very much advanced, ate with their fingers, as gracefully as possible. Plutarch mentions the rules to be followed when eating with the fingers, and this is one of the most interesting passages in his description of antique customs. In the middle ages people still ate with their fingers. It is true enough that ablutions took place before and after a meal, but still that custom was anything but clean. Each of the guest at a dinner was first offered a basin and a pitcher of water, and it was bad form to help one's self to any of the viands before having carefully washed hands and face.

Goldsmiths finally invented forks, but at first they were objects of luxury and were used only at times when they might just as well have been done without. The first mention of forks is made in a document dated 1300, which says that Pierre Gaveston, the favorite of Edward II., possessed three "furches" (forks) for eating pears, cheese and sandwiches. It was more than three hundred years later before forks were used for fish and meat.

About the second decade of the seventeenth century a picture of the Royal Prince of France shows that he carried a case containing a knife, a spoon and what looked very much like a fork.

Glasses and drinking cups were first made of wood or tin. In the fifteenth century Venice manufactured the wonderful glassware, which replaced on the table of the "seigneurs" the heavy oaken or metal cups formerly used. Egg cups were not known previous to the fifteenth century, and even in the sixteenth century they were rather scarce and had no distinct name. They were described as "an article in which to place and hold an egg" or "a silver thing to place an egg in."

Salt cellars also date from the fifteenth century. Goldsmiths excelled in making artistic salt cellars and the one modeled for King Francis I. of France by Benvenuto Cellini was a wonderful work of art. People in general did not know the use of salt cellars, and even among wealthy families it was the custom to break a piece of bread and to place the salt for each individual upon the bread.

TO CURE NERVOUS DYSPESIA.

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Mean, Make a Test of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets-Interesting Experience of an Indianapolis Gentleman.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think that their nerves are to blame, and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicine and spring remedies; the real seat of the mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspepsia often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headache; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite, with accumulation of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

Mr. A. W. Sharper, of No. 61 Prospect street, Indianapolis, Ind., writes as follows: "A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these few lines regarding the new and valuable medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have been a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia for the last four years; have used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable result. They sometimes gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I attributed this to my sedentary habits, being a bookkeeper with little physical exercise, but I am glad to state that the tablets have overcome all these obstacles, for I have gained in flesh, sleep better and am better in every way. The above is written not for notoriety, but is based on actual fact."

Respectfully yours,

A. W. Sharper, 61 Prospect street, Indianapolis, Ind. It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache. Send for valuable little book on stomach diseases by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. All druggists sell full-sized packages at 50 cents.

THE OLD OFFICE DEVIL. Chicago Times-Herald: The old-time devil was keen to learn. He had gall. He wasn't afraid to ask the milliners for advertising or printing. He dreamed of owning a paper of his own. He experimented in a thousand ways. He lived in the office almost, being there early and late. He made a battery and copper-plated types before the first type founder thought of doing it. He did stereotyping in a rude way, making a matrix from blotting paper. Desiring to do his work better he tried to buy proper materials for stereotyping, but he was baffled so easily by the prices or talk given him by the dealers that for many years he supposed he was the victim of some infamous jealous jealousy.

A tramp printer from Chicago made him believe that gasoline could be made. The Chicago man pointed to a big can of the fluid and insisted that he had made it. Gasoline was high-priced then. The devil sold the gasoline the printer said he had made to a rival office and the two divided the money. "Make some more," said the devil; "there is a demand for it." The Chicago printer left that night and the editor made the devil pay for the gasoline.

The editor can recall his last visit from the tramp printer he "learned the trade" with-the one who made gasoline. He came into the shop and was denied work by the foreman. He saw at a glance that the old days and loose ways were gone. Neatly dressed, well kept young men and women were at work in an office as clean as a parlor. "Where's runnin' this sheet now?" he inquired.

"Jack Hill!" was the reply. "I know him," he said, laconically. "I taught him his 'b's'." And then they saw him drift into the sanctum and heard him say, "Hello, Jack. You're doing well. I want something to eat and drink."

"Gasoline" got what he asked for, just as all tourists do who apply. The next morning he called on his editor friend again, and when he found him discussing prohibition with two or three ministers and one or two elders of the town he lurched right into the editorial den and joined in the talk to help the editor along. He was very drunk. He cried and said that naturally he was a prohibitionist, but he really longed to die and go to heaven, only he had become "such a d---d skeptic he didn't believe there was such a place. Then he went to sleep. The preachers looked at him in pity. The editor spoke kindly of him as a comrade who had seen better days. As the editor talked "Gasoline" awoke and said:

"Jack, if you don't gimme a quarter to buy a drink I'll sit here and holler." And "holler" he did. He "hollered" until the ministers left. This may or may not account for the fact that prohibition has prohibited in Editor Jack Hill's town since the last visit of his Chicago printer friend.

A Sharp Theatrical Manager.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.-"Der Wurst Fabrikant von Lake View," otherwise "The Sausage Maker of Lake View," which was advertised as a dramatization of the Luettgen murder case proved a veritable gold mine for its producer last night. The aise ways, chairs, boxes, beer tables and everything else around the hall where a man or woman could sit were occupied. And it turned out that there was nothing new to the play but the name. The manager of the little German theatre saw an opportunity to catch the public eye and he changed the name of the familiar German comedy by Blumenthal and Kahberg, known in English as "The Two Escutcheons." The smart thing in this is appreciated when it is remembered that in the comedy as it stands in the original German, the central male character is a manufacturer of sausage and hails from Chicago.

ALASKAN NOMENCLATURE

Proper Spelling of Names That Have Recently Become of Public Interest.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12.-The United States board on geographic names, which meets here at stated intervals, has just rendered decisions determining the spelling of 149 geographical names. These include a number in Alaska-significant at this time in view of the Klondike excitement. Many variations of nomenclature for the same place are encountered, and the board's action settles the uniform usage. Following is a summary of action taken by relating to places conspicuously mentioned in the gold stories.

As to Klondike the decision is to spell as here given, and not Clondyke, Klondyke, Chandyke, Chandyk, or Deer, Reindeer, Throldyke nor Thron Dnick. One of the lakes of the upper Yukon was named "Lebarg" by the Western Union telegraph expedition in 1885, after "Mike" Lebarg, a member of the exploring party, who is now living somewhere near Ottawa, Canada. Late publications have fallen into the error of spelling this "Labarge," but the board adheres to the original for "Lebarg." There is a Lebarg river in Alaska.

When Schwatka descended the Yukon in 1883 he named one of the lakes on its headwaters Lindeman, after Dr. Morris Lindeman, now vice president of the Bremen Geographical Society. This sometimes erroneously appears as "Lindemann" and "Lindermann." The board adopts "Lindeman." One of the principal tributaries of the upper Yukon is the Lewes river, named by Mr. Robert Campbell, of the Hudson Bay Company, about 1848. This is often misnamed "Lewis."

The inlet, river and villages at the head of Lynn canal, which is in the newspapers almost daily under the form of "Dyen," the starting point for the overland route, is an Indian word, which has appeared in many forms. Admiral Meade in 1869 wrote it "Tyta;" Krause in 1882 wrote it "Dejah;" Schwatka in 1883, "Dayay;" Dall in 1889, "Talya." The board adopts the form "Talya."

For the lake and river variously called "Hootalinqua" or "Hootaling" or "Teslin-Hina" or "Teslin-Too" or "Teslin," the board adopts "Teslin." The terminations Hina and Too are said to mean river in different Indian dialects. An Indian village on the middle Yukon is called "Nuklukayet." This has been written in several forms, including the erroneous one, "Tuklukyet."

IT'S SO EASY.

When You Know How-Allow Us to Tell You Before You Give Up Hope-Words of Encouragement from a Citizen of Wheeling.

After trying medicines that helped you. When you had cures that didn't. When you are completely stuck in despair. When your poor back still aches. Because you don't get down to causes. Try Doan's Kidney Pills. The unexpected always happens. If you toss all night racked with back pain. The tenant has to be evicted. Depend upon it, it's your kidneys. If you cannot bend over or straighten up. Kidney disorder rarely leaves of its own accord. Doan's Kidney Pills do not compromise or arrange for a new lease. They cure all kidney complaints. This is their mission and they fulfill it. Mrs. Scott Liston, residing at No. 23 South Huron street, says: "Last spring my daughter Bertie caught a heavy cold which settled in her kidneys and in spite of everything we could do she got steadily worse. Doctors prescribed for her and bottle after bottle of medicine was used, but it did not do any good. She had such steady bearing down pains across the kidneys; dreadful headaches; spells of dizziness so that at times she could scarcely get around; was always tired and distressed; restless and irritable and arose in the morning unrefreshed, and weak, in fact her whole system seemed to get an aching, aching, aching, the least bit of good. I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at the Logan Drug Co. for her. She felt relief from the first few doses and continued them until two boxes had been taken. She is now as strong as ever she was, sleeps well, and feels well in every way. Many of our friends have remarked the improvement in appearance and we have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and would not be without them for any consideration."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents, Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.
